TEACHING

On Water:

Global Economics of Water, Second Year Elective MBA Program, Darden, UVA, spring 2014, 2 sections in Fall 2014, 2 sections in Fall 2015, Spring 2017, Spring 2018, Fall 2018- now.

A course for MBA students that I designed, focusing on the role of water in the global and local economy, the nature of water (from an economic perspective), the link with food and energy, and the relevance of water for firms and sustainability.

Seminar, Water Markets, School of Architecture/Environmental Science, UVA 2013

Interdisciplinary seminar for grad students, co-taught with Brian Richter (Nature Conservancy) on all aspects with water markets, with the aim of writing a policy paper on water markets (published in Water Policy).

Water and Sustainability, School of Architecture/Environmental Science, UVA, 2012, co-taught with Brian Richter (Nature Conservancy) and Paolo D'Odorico (Environmental Science): multi-disciplinary introduction to water and sustainability (water markets, dams, river flow, virtual water, Bay Game)

Diplomacy Lab (with Brian Richter, Paolo D'Odorico), Water Security, State Dept., Washington D.C., Fall 2014, "Hidden Water Wars."

On International Economics

First Year Global Economics and Markets, MBA program, Darden, UVA, 2006-2014,

2021 - . Open economy macro course for MBA's, built around the Mundell-Fleming Model, with additional focus on balance of payment crises, economic growth, and governance (externalities and cap and trade, trade policy, financial regulation)

Managing International Trade and Investment, Second Year elective MBA Program,

Darden, UVA, 2009-10, 2018. First Year elective, 2019 -. A course for MBA students designed to provide a framework to place companies in the global economy. Against the background of theories for international trade and multinational corporations, different modes of entry into the global economy (export, affiliates, etc.) are investigated, and the interactions between firms, sectors and country characteristics are explored.

Pre-matriculation for MBA students, Darden, UVA, 2007-08.
